

bud's books

R.G. "Bud" Phelps

Author, Lecturer, Consultant

Accountant for Price Waterhouse and countless businesses – serviceman in the U.S. Navy – and a native of small-town Nebraska – Bud Phelps has made it his mission to share both his business knowledge and his memories of Middle America, pre- and post-World War II, in a series of books that ranges from historical fiction to accounting and business planning.

"The numbering system is the key that opens the door for developing and positioning accounts." –From The Business Plan and Beyond

"The movie was a classic, with Henry Fonda and Jane Darnell playing in the starring roles. Lorraine was thrilled that Jack's hand had found her hand in the darkness." –
From Gibbon's Secrets

"The two ships, running side by side, were nose-diving into the sea as the waves increased in height. They did finally get the fuel lines attached, and the fueling operation started." –From Back in the Day

(Read about Bud's books on the reverse side.)

Good Reads: The Fun of History & the Function of Business

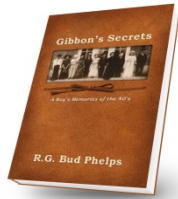

Bud Phelps gathers a lifetime of wisdom and memories into this delightful set of books—from nuts and bolts business accounting and business planning to tender memories of his home town before and during World War II, to funny coming-of-age tales of adventure in the Navy.

For both readers who love historical fiction and business owners looking for encouragement and guidance, Bud's Books is a great place to be.

Learn more about Bud and his books at:

budsbooks.com/about

Historical Fiction

Gibbon's Secrets

$14.95

First in the Bud Phelps Life Series books, Gibbon's Secrets is a down-to-earth historical, fictional tale about a boy growing up in a small town during and after World War II. Through the fun of a fictional setting, Bud shares real memories of the home front, including the people and places he loved.

Back in the Day

$15.95

Second in the Bud Phelps Life Series, this book covers the years 1945 to 1955. The fictional account is based on personal memories of growing up in the Middle-American town of Curtis, Nebraska. The story parallels Bud's memories from high school through his service in the U.S. Navy.

Mill Park Mystery

$13.50

The tale begins with a murder and a mysterious black-hatted man in a small Nebraska town, then follows his mysterious path to Nuremberg and a startling conclusion. In real life, Bud Phelps visited the places mentioned in this book and incorporated many personal memories into the mystery.

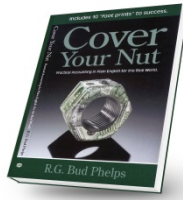

Business

Anti Nazi Task Force

$14.50

From the point that "Mill Park Mystery" ends, follow the continuing adventures of Reg and George, who have been assigned by a special task force to search for private art collections taken from Jewish families during WW II. An exciting tale of intrigue and romance.

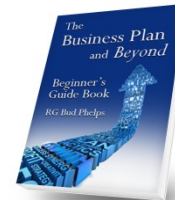

Cover Your Nut

$12.95

Financial statements provide an almost magical look into the health and well-being of a business, offering business owners clues to analyze progress and make plans for the future.

This book, Bud's first, was written for managers with limited accounting experience.

The Business Plan and Beyond

$12.95

For many years, in Lincoln Nebraska's SCORE workshop, "What's Involved in Starting a Small Business," Bud Phelps has taught new entrepreneurs about the foundations and needs of new businesses.

Subjects are the same as those covered in the workshop.

